

Tell the U.S. Gov: No More LNG Exports

January 15, 2025

The U.S. Department of Energy's updated analysis on exports of liquified natural gas, or LNG, makes it clear that the exports aren't in the public's interest. They increase climate-killing pollution, raise prices for families, and threaten public health and national security.

We, the 317 undersigned, urge you to apply the findings in these studies — which improve upon outdated datasets that were previously used to fast-track LNG permits — and reject all pending LNG export projects immediately.

Here's why you should stop all pending LNG exports:

* Projects like CP2 LNG in Louisiana could lead to 190 million tons of CO₂e pollution per year — an amount equivalent to the pollution emitted from 51 coal-fired power plants. If these carbon bombs move forward, they could devastate the climate.

* They'll impact health in vulnerable human communities. LNG facilities are concentrated in areas that already suffer from pollution and climate change, leading to higher rates of cancer, asthma, and heart disease for people who've already suffered enough. The department's analysis states that air pollution from existing export terminals could cause 60 deaths and cost nearly 1 billion dollars in healthcare annually. The agency also admits these numbers would more than double if all planned LNG projects are completed. These numbers show the serious risks LNG poses to people — and they must not be ignored.

* The heavy dredging and construction needed to build LNG facilities damages ecosystems, devastates local economies reliant on fishing and tourism, and threatens biodiversity.

* The facilities will raise costs for families. The department's study finds expanding LNG exports will increase wholesale domestic methane gas prices by more than 30% by 2050 and increase costs for the average American household by more than $100 per year by 2050. LNG exports raise energy bills for Americans while padding the profits of oil and gas CEOs. We need policies that protect people — not corporate profits.

Sec. Granholm, we are counting on you to lead your agency in quickly addressing these concerns. Please reject all proposed LNG export projects — before it's too late for people or the planet we call home.
