To the US Department of Energy:

This email concerns the NERA study about the possible exportation of liquefied natural gas. This could help bolster the US Domestic Economy and reduce our trade imbalance. The study suggests that doing so could create stateside jobs, bolster this country's energy infrastructure, assist our Allies in meeting their energy needs, and add billions of dollars additional revenue to our economy. I ask you to consider the results of this study when deciding the question of the exportation of natural gas.

Sincerely,

Rep. Tom Letson
